Laurent Solly

Co-Founder & COO, Advanced Machine Intelligence

8h •

I'm thrilled to announce that I'm joining Yann LeCun, Alex LeBrun and a team of talented founder Saining Xie, Pascale Fung and Michael Rabbat to be the COO of AMI - Advanced Machine Intelligence.

Being a co-founder of this company with such a vision and a honor is a great honor and significant responsibility.

We've secured a $1.03 billion USD (approximately €890M) seed round to fuel our mission to build intelligent systems capable of truly understanding the real world, which has always been a long-term scientific goal.

Over twelve years at Meta, I worked to develop Meta's business and improve its footprint in Europe, and alongside Yann LeCun to participate in raising FAIR Paris into the largest AI research lab outside the United States. Researchers from that lab went on to co-found some of Europe's most important AI companies. It confirmed something I have believed for a long time: Europe has the talent to lead in AI. What it has often lacked is the right structure to turn world-class research into world-class technology companies.

That is what AMI is designed to be: a leading global AI company, which will develop the next generation of AI frontier models.

AMI is building world models: AI that understands the physical world, reasons about cause and effect, and operates with the reliability that high-stakes industries demand. This is a fundamentally different approach from current language models, and it is being built from Europe, for the world.

We are headquartered in Paris with offices in Montreal, New York, and Singapore. But technology alone does not build a company. What drew me to AMI is the combination: a research vision led by one of the most distinguished scientists in the field, a team of exceptional builders, and unique culture with the ambition to create a truly global AI company rooted in open research and open source.

.We are hiring researchers, builders, and those who want to bring transformative AI to the real world.

If this resonates with you, Join us !

Real world. Real intelligence.

Congratulations to both of you Laurent & Yann on this remarkable milestone. The ambition behind AMI - Advanced Machine Intelligence is extremely inspiring, particularly from a manufacturing perspective. I can't wait to see this new generation of AI go beyond pattern-matching to deliver the reliability that industrial environments demand. Maybe there will be a Bayesian k ...more
